Scenic World invites locals to the party in November

Established in 1945, Scenic World is inviting locals to visit for just $19.45 this month

Scenic World wants to share the magic of its backyard with its neighbours from Mount Victoria to Lapstone this month and is offering locals discounted entry as it celebrates its 70th birthday.

Plugging into the year the Hammon Family first carried tourists on the Scenic Railway – 1945 – Scenic World is rolling back its Unlimited Discovery Pass fares to $19.45.

Scenic World's Joint Managing Director, David Hammon, said the world-class tourist attraction had been home to thousands of memories for locals who had visited the site over the years and there was no better time than now to revisit Scenic World.

“Scenic World has changed a lot over the past few years,” David said, “We often have locals visit and reminisce about the old Scenic Railway carriages and the Skyway and they are always gobsmacked at the attractions as they are today.”

“We still offer a unique experience and unrivalled access to the beautiful Jurassic rainforest, so if you're from Mount Victoria to Lapstone and you haven't dropped by in a while come and rediscover one of the world's best attractions in your own back yard,” David said.

Offer valid from 1 - 30 November 2015 for Blue Mountains residents (Mount Victoria to Lapstone).

Visitors are asked to present photo identification noting their address at the ticket desk to redeem the $19.45 entry offer.
